MAP is a cooperative program between the Institute of Museum and Library Services and the American Association of Museums designed to help museums assess their strengths and weaknesses and plan for the future. In all MAP assessments a self-study is completed, followed by an on-site visit by one or more museum professionals who talk to staff, governing officials and volunteers. After the site visit, the surveyor(s) writes a report on the museum's operations and makes recommendations for future improvements and plans. The program provides non-competitive grants of technical assistance for three types of assessments: institutional (overall programs and operations), collections management (collections planning, policy and procedure) and public dimension (the public's perception of, experience with, and involvement with the museum).	Museums must: care for and own or use tangible objects, exhibit them on a regular basis, be open to the public 120 days or more annually, have provided museum services to the general public on a regular basis for at least two full years prior to the date of application, and have at least one full-time paid or volunteer staff person or the equivalent. See website; each of the sponsoring organizations require an application.	All public or private nonprofit museums, including historic houses and sites

Credits allocated annually.	The Tax Reform Act of 1986 (IRC Section 42) established a tax credit for the acquisition and rehabilitation, or new construction of low-income housing. The credit is approximately 9% per year for 10 years for projects not receiving certain Federal subsidies and approximately 4% for 10 years for projects subsidized by tax-exempt bonds or below market Federal loans. The units must be rent restricted and occupied by individuals with incomes below the area median gross income. The law sets a 15-year compliance period. Credits are allocated by State housing credit agencies. Developers have combined this credit with the 20% historic rehabilitation federal tax credit to rehabilitate historic buildings to provide rental units for low income residents.	See the State Housing Finance and Development Authority website for program details. Requirements are set forth in a Qualified Allocation Plan. Must have 20% of units occupied by households earning at or below 50% of the median income of the area or 40% of the units occupied by households earning at or below 60% of the area's median income.

Rural housing is a major part of the Rural Development mission area and is committed to assisting those families and individuals in South Carolina with their needs for decent, safe, sanitary, and affordable housing. The following programs are not specifically historic preservation related, but may include rehabilitation assistance and/or be used with historic properties. Section 502 Program-Insured: A single family housing direct loan program that provides opportunities for very low- and low-income families and individuals to purchase, construct or rehabilitate their own homes with a direct loan from Rural Development. The homeowner's monthly mortgage payment is based on their income. Section 502 Program-Guaranteed: The loan guarantee program provides guarantees to lenders. Lenders may approve loans up to 100 percent of the appraised value for moderate income applicants. An approved lender originates the loan and the agency will guarantee 90 percent of the mortgage. Section 504 Program-Insured Loans and Grants: The loan and grant program can assist qualified very low-income homeowners to make repairs to improve or modernize their home, to make their homes safer and sanitary or to remove health and safety hazards. Grants are available for repairs that remove health or safety hazards to qualified applicants 62 years of age or older. Technical Assistance Grants: These grants are targeted for self-help housing for public or non-profit groups. Applicants must show a need for self-help housing, the professional expertise to supervise a project and lack of funding in order to be eligible for assistance. Section 515 Program: Loans are made to individuals, partnerships, non-profit corporations, state or local public agencies, or associations to develop multi-family housing complexes in rural communities. These rural rental housing complexes provide eligible persons in low and moderate income categories and for Senior citizens 62 years of age or older with rental housing suited to their living requirements.
